

AUTHORS' SHORT BIOGRAPHIES

---

ČEPAITIENĖ, Rasa is a researcher at the Lithuanian Historical Institute, Associate Professor at Vilnius University, and lecturer at the European Humanities University. Her scholarly interests are cultural heritage conservation theories, world and Lithuanian historiographies, cultural (especially post-communist) memory studies. She has authored 4 monographs, including her last work "Cultural heritage in the global world" (2010, Russian and Lithuanian versions) and about 60 research papers. Research interests: cultural heritage and collective memory studies, Soviet culture and post-Soviet transformation. E-mail: rasa.cepaitiene@if.vu.lt

CUȘCO, Andrei (b. 1982, Chișinău, Republic of Moldova) holds a Ph.D. degree in the Comparative History of Central, Southeastern and Eastern Europe from the Department of History of the Central European University (CEU) in Budapest. His research interests focus on modern East European history, comparative history of the Eurasian empires, intellectual history and historiography. Starting from September 2008, he is a lecturer at the Department of World History of Ion Creangă Pedagogical State University in Chișinău. Since 2011, Dr. Cușco has been Director of the Center for Empire Studies at the Department of History and Philosophy within Moldova State University. Dr. Cușco's most recent major publication is a book on the history of Bessarabia as a borderland of the Russian Empire (Bessarabia as a Part of the Russian Empire, 1812-1917), published, in Russian, at the Novoe Literaturnoe Obozrenie Press (Moscow) in March 2012, co-authored with Victor Taki. E-mail: andreicusco@yahoo.com

DUMITRU, Diana is an Associate Professor of History at Ion Creangă Pedagogical State University of Moldova. Her first book on Great Britain's role in the union of the Romanian Principalities was published in 2010, and she is currently finishing a book on the relationship between Jews and Gentiles in the Soviet Union and Romania between 1918 and 1945. Her articles have been published in Holocaust and Genocide Studies, Cahiers du monde russe, and Yad Vashem Studies, among others. Her World Politics article, "Constructing Interethnic Conflict and Cooperation: Why Some People Harmed Jews and Others Helped Them during the Holocaust in Romania" received the 2012 Mary Parker Follett Award for the best article or chapter published in the field of politics and history. E-mail: didumitru@yahoo.com

FELCHER, Anastasia is a PhD candidate in Management and Development of Cultural Heritage at IMT Institute for Advanced Studies Lucca, a graduate from PhD program at the Academy of Sciences of Moldova, and a Central European University History Department alumna. She has written on the intellectual construction of Russian literary pantheon in 19th and 20th centuries and is currently working on the topic of (mis)management of Jewish built heritage in the urban environment of Eastern Europe. Her academic interests include: Russian and East-Central European studies, the intersection of literature and politics, the politics of commemoration, cultural heritage studies and protection, etc. E-mail: anastasia.felcher@gmail.com

JOHNSON, Carter is the Regional Director of Russia and Moldova at American Councils for International Education and a Visiting Professor at the Higher School of Economics in Moscow. His scholarly interests include the study of civil wars, post-war state-building, and the role of ethnic identity in conflict. His work has been published in International Security, World Politics, and Nationalism and Ethnic Politics. E-mail: johnsoncarter@gmail.com

MANOLI, Panagiota (Ph.D., University of Warwick) is a lecturer at the Department of Mediterranean Studies, University of the Aegean, Greece. She was a Policy Scholar at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, Washington D.C.; Director of Studies and Research at the International Center for Black Sea Studies, Athens; and Secretary of the Economic Affairs Committee of the Parliamentary Assembly of Black Sea Economic Cooperation, Istanbul. She is the author of The dynamics of Black Sea subregionalism (2012). E-mail: manoli@rhodes.aegean.gr

MUNTEANU, Octavian is an Associate Professor at the World History Department of Ion Creangă Pedagogical State University of Moldova. He is responsible for the courses of Archaeology and Ancient History of Rome and Greece. His major scientific interests are determined by the Latene era issues in the East-European territories, and mainly the history of the Getae and of their relations with the neighboring populations and with those having migrated to the Carpatho-Dniestrian silvosteppe at the end of the Ist millennium B.C. E-mail: ocmunteanu@gmail.com

MUSTEAȚĂ, Sergiu, historian from the Republic of Moldova, founder and president of the National Association of Young Historians of Moldova, is currently Dean of the History Department of Ion Creangă Pedagogical State University in Chișinău. Author of 6 monographs and more than 200 articles on history, archaeology, cultural heritage preservation and textbooks analysis. Editor of two monograph series – ANTIM monographs and Unknown Documents and Histories (20 volumes published), and editor of the young historian's annual journal (10 volumes published). Every year he does over 20 presentations and public lectures in various academic centres around the world. Hence, in recent years he has been a visiting scholar and a visiting professor in many universities of USA, Germany, Romania, etc. E-mail: sergiu\_musteata@yahoo.com

NEGURĂ, Petru is a lecturer at Ion Creangă Pedagogical State University of Moldova. He holds a Ph.D. in Sociology from the École des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales (Paris) and he authored a book (Ni héros, ni traîtres. Les écrivains moldaves face au pouvoir soviétique sous Staline, Paris, L'Harmattan, 2009) and tens of academic articles. Petru Negură was an invited scholar / lecturer at the École Doctorale en Sciences Sociales of Bucharest (EDSS, within the University of Bucharest), at the École des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales of Paris (EHESS), and at the University of California, Berkeley. From 2010 to 2013, Petru Negură was country coordinator of the Academic Fellowship Program (Open Society Foundations / HESP) in Moldova. From 2011, he is director of the PLURAL Forum in Social Sciences, based in Chişinău. His current research topics include: the sociology / social history of intellectuals in Eastern Europe and in the former USSR; the sociology / social history of public education in Eastern Europe and in the former Soviet Union; the sociology / social history of the social welfare services in the USSR and in post-Soviet Moldova. E-mail: petru.negura@gmail.com

OBERLÄNDER-TÂRNOVEANU, Irina is a heritage consultant at the National Heritage Institute (INP) in Bucharest. An archaeologist and former Deputy Director of the Institute for Cultural Memory–CIMEC (1993-2011), she has worked for the national cultural heritage inventories for the last 30 years, being among the pioneers of computerization in the field of cultural heritage, archaeology and museum collections. She participated in many international, European, regional and national projects, conferences and working groups on topics regarding databases, digitization and the use of new information and communication technologies in the field of cultural heritage, aerial archaeology, access to cultural heritage, European heritage networks, policies, standards and thesauri. She published five books, and 45 papers and handbooks, edited several volumes and CD-ROMs, and developed the main website for the Romanian cultural heritage (www.cimec.ro), while also being active in international organization (ICOM/CIDOC, EAA, CAA, AARG). E-mail: irinaober@yahoo.com

SAMUELSON, Amy has a Ph.D. in cultural anthropology. She is currently doing research and consulting work for environmental NGOs in Chişinău, Moldova. Her research focuses on environmental activism in Moldova and Romania, and she has presented the results of her work at the annual meetings of the American Anthropological Association, the American Ethnological Society, the Association for Political and Legal Anthropology, and the Society for Applied Anthropology. E-mail: samuelson.amy@gmail.com

SAVA, Igor is a Ph.D. in History, Associate Professor at the Department of World History, Ion Creangă Pedagogical State University of Chişinău; taught courses: Medieval and Early Modern World History (Western Europe), History of the Caliphate (sec. VII-XIII). Research internships and participation in various local, national and international conferences. Author of several academic studies and articles and a monograph: The country monasteries in Moldova in the second half of 14-16 centuries, Pontos, Chişinău, 2012, 332 p. Areas of interest and academic concerns: medieval history, Romanian medieval institutions, ecclesiastical, social and economic structures of Carpathian-Dniester region, medieval life and mentalities, political ideology and forms of power in the Middle Ages. E-mail: igorsavaas@yahoo.com

SAVA, Lucia is a Ph.D. in History, Associate Professor at the Department of World History, Ion Creangă Pedagogical State University of Chişinău; taught courses: The modern history of Europe and America, The history of private life in the modern period. Internships and research projects with national and international impact in Romania, France, Poland, etc. Author of several academic studies and articles and a monograph: Daily life in Chişinău at the beginning of the twentieth century (1900-1918), Pontos, Chişinău, 2010, 318 p. Research interests: modern and contemporary history, history and culture theory, history of religions, anthropology. E-mail: luciasmd@yahoo.com

SCHERRER, Jutta is a Research Director at the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales (Paris) since 1980. She is teaching Russian history and is particularly engaged with analysis of socio-cultural, political and philosophical phenomena of the 19th and 20th centuries. She has published extensively on Russian intelligentsia, Russian Marxism, Russian orthodoxy and religious philosophy. Her more recent research deals with identity construction in post-Soviet Russia, historical memory and politics of history. She is a member of the scientific council of the Institute for the Study of Eastern Europe in Leipzig (GWZO), of the German Historical Museum in Berlin and the German-Russian Museum in Berlin-Karlshorst.

STAMATI, Iurie is a PhD candidate at Laval University, Canada. His PhD dissertation is about the place of Slavs in the Moldavian archaeological discourse during the Soviet era. His specific research interests are: the place of archaeology in the so-called “totalitarian” societies; archaeology and nationalism; the “field” of cultural production (especially the historiography and archaeology fields) in Soviet Union; the involvement of Pan-Slavic ideology in Moldavian and Romanian historiographic discourse. E-mail: iurie.stamati.1@ulaval.ca

TAKI, Victor holds an M.A. and a Ph.D. from the Central European University (Budapest). His doctoral dissertation, “Russia on the Danube: Imperial Expansion and Political Reform in Moldavia and Wallachia, 1812–1834,” examined discursive and institutional aspects of relations between the Russian Empire and the elites of the two Romanian principalities at the dawn of the modern era. He has held temporary teaching positions at Carleton University (Ottawa), the University of Alberta (Edmonton), and Dalhousie University (Halifax). In 2011-2013, he was a postdoctoral fellow and lecturer at the University of Alberta, working on a book project devoted to the Russian encounters with the Ottoman Empire in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. He is currently affiliated with the Center of Ukrainian and Belorussian Studies at the Faculty of History of Moscow State University. His most recent publications are “Orientalism at the Margins: The Ottoman Empire under Russian Eyes,” Kritika, no. 2 (2011), 321–351, and a monograph (co-authored with Andrei Cușco), Bessarabiia v sostave rossiiskoi imperii, 1812–1917 (Moscow: Novoe Literaturnoe Obozrenie, 2012). E-mail: vitaky2001@yahoo.com

VORONOVICI, Alexandr is a PhD candidate at the Central European University (Budapest) and lecturer at Ion Creangă Pedagogical State University of Chișinău. His research interests include Soviet nationality and borderland policies, entangled history of Central and Eastern Europe, history of the Soviet Union in comparative perspective. Currently Alexandr is writing the PhD thesis on the Soviet borderland policies in the Ukrainian SSR and the Moldovan ASSR in 1920s and 1930s. He is the author of several articles on interwar Soviet nationality policies. Research interests: Soviet nationality policies, borderland studies, history of entanglements. E-mail: alex.voronovici@gmail.com